

Stanton House

Set in the heart of El Paso, just a short distance from the U.S./Mexico border, this art-rich design gem celebrates two cultures with an authentic Southwest experience that puts the Tex-Mex cliché to shame. Warm, contemporary fabrics and international allure are embraced by neutral colors, wood, concrete, marble, and terrazos. The design scheme at Stanton House intentionally challenges the narrative of the “sleepy Southwest border town”, announcing to the world that El Paso is a culture-rich city with international flavors.
