

Gorgeous George

Gorgeous George is a bold testament to both South African and international design. The hotel's architects artfully repurposed two historical structures with a provocative industrial thread. Urbane Citizen Architecture showcases the classical aesthetic of the two heritage structures through grand architraves, cornices, and oak floors, all of which are juxtaposed by sculptural concrete and steel beams. Incorporating some of the original flow, the architects were able to create spacious suites that organically utilize the structures' existing windows.
